

Hank Dieckhaus

Born outside Philadelphia in Drexel Hill, PA. Graduated from Chaminade H.S. in Hollywood, FL, then attended LaSalle University in Philadelphia. Interrupted my studies to join the US Marine Corps. Spent 13 months in Vietnam in the two years I was in the Corps.

Upon my discharge, I resumed my studies at LaSalle University. Left LaSalle in my fourth year to return home to help my father, who was dying from brain cancer, run his school/office supply business. After my father's death, I stayed and ran the business for my mother.

After several years and having built the business, I sold the business for my mother and moved my young family back to the Philadelphia area, Exton, PA. For the next 24 years I owned and ran two different business, always in the school supply/office furniture field, raised two terrific sons.

In 2003, we sold everything and moved back to Florida to Sanford and started another business, BlueHen.com with my eldest son. I have since become very active in the City of Sanford, joined a couple civic organizations and was appointed to a couple of City boards.
